

Employment and Training Advice

London Employer Accord

The Accord is a new venture, paid for by several different arms of government, but led by major businesses. It brings together employment and skills organisations across the capital to align the skills of local people with the needs of business.

Its aim is to build value-added relationships between employers and publicly funded bodies in the field of employment and skills, which will:

- give the employer the staff they need in a cost-effective manner, and
- help disadvantaged Londoners get and progress in work
